

Write a program that enables the user to protect his personal programs by giving the user a username and password.
Use the following input interface:

In the event that the username and password is entered correctly the program draws a sine wave and performs a mid and full calendar for it while adhering to the form as shown below.

(تقويم موجة نصفية وكلي)

If it is wrong, the user does not enter or open the program.

